national volunteer week

"Arnim is an active participant and the driving force behind the restoration of dunes, preservation of coastal dune plants, and weed control management at Foxton Beach. He has volunteered many hours to this cause and regularly educates fellow residents about the plant species along the Foxton coast. Additionally, Arnim is a regular contributor to "iNaturalist," an online social network where people share biodiversity information, learn about nature, and identify species. It also serves as a tool for recording organism occurrences."
